Know your target fish of the month – the red emperor

What it looks like:

How big does it grow:

Peter Bidner (not a club member) fished Double Island Point October 2011 with this 17.5kg red emperor (<http://www.fishingnoosa.com.au/oct0511.htm>).

Scientific name

Lutjanus sebae

Description

- juveniles and young adults have broad dark red bands which converge at a point beyond the top of the spiny dorsal fin
- bars fade with age and fish become pink-red all over
- dark edges with fine white margin may still be visible on dorsal, anal and top and bottom of tail fins
- each scale carries a white dot

Family name Lutjanidae (tropical snappers and seaperches)

Family description

- most tropical snappers and seaperches are easy to identify by their adult colouration
- most have strong spinous dorsal fins and a more-or-less continuous dorsal fin which may be slightly notched between the spinous and soft parts
- they are carnivores and typically feed at night
- some species are known ciguatoxin carriers
- mangrove jack (Lutjanus argentimaculatus) and large scale seaperch (fingermark) (Lutjanus johnii) are not considered coral reef fish under the fishery plan
- jobfishes are a subset of this family and include all species of the genera Aphareus, Aprion, Etelis, Parapristipomoides and Pristipomoides
- representative species have been illustrated in this guide but there are more species you may catch. Please check current rules and regulations for specific size and in-possession limits

Size and bag limits

- minimum size 55 cm
- bag limit of 5
- in addition, total bag limit of 20 for all Coral Reef Fin Fish

President's Report

Hi all, Our raffles of the meat and seafood trays at the Yacht Club on Friday nights have been a great hit, we will be looking for more members to sell the raffle tickets, so if you can help please give Anthony a ring. A few club members and some of their mates went to Glenlyon Dam for a weeks fishing. There were some nice cod caught and a few yellow belly as well. Joe was very unlucky being the only one not to catch any fish for the whole week, but lost 4 of his nice new spinner baits he had just purchased. I tried giving him a few pointers, but he just wasn't interested and paid the price for it. Cheers Vince.

FISHING REPORT FOR MAY, 2012.

ESTUARY: Flathead taking live whiting and trolled lures from Cotton Tree to Twin Waters and at the goal posts as Bli Bli. Mud crabs around Bli Bli Islands. Whiting on yabbies and live worms at Picnic Point and the mouths of Eudlo and Petrie Creeks. Trevally and estuary cod at the motorway bridge on plastics.

SURF: Teewah to Double Island Point returning tailor at dusk using pillies and 'Raider' style lures. Dart and whiting in the low tide gutters with pippies and beach worms best. Flathead are moving along North Shore and into the Maroochy Bar. Pincushion is returning bream and tailor.

OFFSHORE: When conditions allow, trag jew, snapper and pearl perch in the deeper water on the edge of the Barwon Banks with squid and whole pillies best. Caloundra Six Mile has parrot, sweetlip and squire on squid and cut baits. Squid jigs picking up squid at Old Woman Island and Currimundi.

GAMEFISHING: Cobia on live baits at Caloundra Fairway Buoy. Mackerel on trolled lures at the Outer Gneerings, but few and far between. Sailfish showing up just inside the Barwon Banks try skip gar or swim mullet for the last of the season catch. Yellow tail kingies taking knife jigs at The Blinker.

FRESHWATER: Somerset Dam has plenty of bass on medium divers and shrimp, with golden perch working the deeper, old river bed at Neils Rock and opposite the Spit. Bass and saratoga are providing the only action with both lures and flies working. Upper reaches of Coolum Creek has bass splashing insects, so surface lures are needed there.
